

REAL ESTATE AGENCY DISCLOSURE Given to Unrepresented Persons

Note: If a Buyer or Seller refuse to sign this form you should note that on the form and include the date.

This is not a Contract. Connecticut law requires that you be given this real estate disclosure when you are shown property by a real estate licensee who represents someone other than you. The purpose of such disclosure is to enable you to make an informed decision about your relationship with real estate licensees.

Enter the date you are showing the property here.

This form is used when you are showing your listing, or one of your firm's listings, to someone you do not have an agency agreement with.

Conversely, if the property you are showing is a for sale by owner, you must have the owner of the property sign this form.

Unrepresented Person(s)'s Rights and Responsibilities

Check the box of the individual(s) your firm represents.

1. The broker/agent(s) (as agents or licensees) in this transaction owes the other party to this transaction undivided fiduciary obligations, such as: loyalty, reasonable care, disclosure, and obedience to lawful instruction, confidentiality and accountability. The agent(s) must put the other party's interest first and negotiate for the best terms and conditions for them, not for you.
2. All real estate agents, whether representing you or not, are obligated by law to treat all parties to a real estate transaction honestly and fairly.
3. You have the responsibility to protect your own interests. Carefully read all agreements to make sure they accurately reflect your understanding. If you need additional advice for legal, tax, insurance or other such matters, it is your responsibility to consult a professional in those areas.
4. Whether you are a buyer, seller, tenant, or landlord, you can choose to have the advice, assistance and representation of your own real estate brokerage firm and its agents. Do not assume that a real estate brokerage firm or its agents are representing you on your behalf unless you have contracted in writing with that real estate firm.

Make sure you and the parties listed above sign and date this form.
